FEBRUARY IS AFRICAN HERITAGE MONTH

This Year's Theme Is PASSING THE TORCH

African Nova Scotians and the Next 150 Years

The 2017 African Heritage Month theme honours past and present legacies of African Nova Scotians while looking forward to future greatness. Embracing the struggle and adversity that African Nova Scotians endured over the generations, the theme highlights their successes and bright path forward as Canada celebrates 150 years of confederation.

The province of Nova Scotia has over 50 historic African Nova Scotian communities, dating back over 200 years. Each February and beyond, the history, heritage and contributions of African Nova Scotians are celebrated.

The 2017 theme also aligns with the global observance of the United Nations International Decade for People of African Descent from 2015-2024 which focuses on three pillars: Recognition, Justice and Development.

RBC BLACK HISTORY MONTH

ESSAY COMPETITION

We are pleased to announce that Rachel Holland, Grade 12 student at MRHS, has won a $500 scholarship for her entry into the RBC Black History Month Essay Competition. Congratulations, Rachel!
